Silence engulfs mansions of Ampatuans

By Jeffrey M. Ruge
Ampatuan Minister

DAVAO CITY—THE MANSIONS of the Ampatuans in Joro Sulu's town here, an enclave of the old town of Davao, have been unusually silent since Monday.

It was on Nov. 23 that around 50 people were believed to be shot by Davao Mayor Andal Ampatuan Jr. in a slaughter of at least 57 people, including members of the Maguindanao clan and at least 27 journalists, in Ampatuan town in Maguindanao. Authorities said people belonging to the Ampatuan clan, especially those staying in universities here, had flown to Manila, leaving the mansions in caretakers.

FEARED AND LOATHED BY HIS enemies, Andal Ampatuan Jr. is known as the "hatchet man" of a powerful Muslim clan in Mindanao whose family history is written in blood.

A chubby, stone-faced man in his 40s with a penchant for expensive guns, he is the son and successor of the clan patriarch who has ruled as governor of Maguindanao province for most of this decade.

Ampatuan Jr. denies any role in this week's massacre of 57 people in Maguindanao who were allegedly targeted in a political challenge from a rival clan.

Probe points to mayor as prime suspect

A GOVERNMENT TEAM tasked to investigate the slaughter of 57 people in Maguindanao is quietly obtaining depositions from witnesses that appear to point to Andal Ampatuan Jr. as prime suspect, officials said.

Senior Secretary Remelito Puno also disclosed in a briefing at Camp Crame that aside from Ampatuans, four police officials had been placed under "restrictive custody" in connection with Monday's massacre.

They were Senior Supt. Agustin Merviel, acting police director of the Maguindanao police office, Chief Insp. Salazar Tirona, acting deputy provincial CNN HERO OF THE YEAR first Pinellaforda arrived in the country on Wednesday night, somehow helping uplift the country's mood seared by the slaughter of at least 57 people in Maguindanao on Monday.

Bouncing while holding the CNN plaque, Pinellaforda was welcomed by a handful of artists and Davaoans from Gov. Co. (DTC) members, who cheered and waved Philippine flags upon seeing him.

They mobbed, hugged and kissed him, while chanting "Bog Bog" and "Bog Bog!"

Reacting to the roaring crowd, a woman at the airport said, "Wow, it was pure joy!"

'OPEN SEASON' FOR PREMATURE CAMPAIGNING

Comelec dismayed by SC ruling

By Katherine E. Wilson

THE COMMISSION ON ELECTIONS YESTERDAY expressed dismay at the Supreme Court ruling that effectively decriminalises premature campaigning, saying it would make electoral contests lopsided in favour of rich candidates.

"If you are less lenient and less generous you will be at a disadvantage because of the situation," he said.

With the decision, the position is in the Canadian Election Code after a campaign period of 30 days. The 30-day period is extended to 45 days for local candidates but has been extended "several more months," he said.

The law also puts the onus for the filing of the candidates' ap-

Maguindanao massacre revives call to reimpose death penalty

By Leslie H.

THE UNQUALIFIED scale and timidity of the billings in Singapore, Macanese, have evolved with the suppression of the death penalty.

Months ago, Francisco Abano, a death penalty advocate who filed a petition last year to reinstate capital punishment, said:

Peaceful polls in Maguindanao a big challenge for Comelec

By Lela B. Salaverda

THE COMMISSION ON ELECTEDS IN MAGUINDANAO now begins working to ensure peaceful and honest elections in Maguindanao following the killings in the province linked to a political rally according to a party list lawmaker.

Atty. Rep. Wilfredo Milla said that he believed the Comelec, rather than the Armed Forces, should be in charge of the province.

"Malacating should not deplore troops to maintain peace in the area, for that will simply aggravate a cycle of violence that has plagued the communities in the Maguindanao region," he said.

He said the Comelec should be in command, and it should direct the police and the military to begin securing the roads in the province, a task that should have been done long ago. These actions would pave the way for the holding of peaceful polls in the region, he added.

"The Comelec should at least ensure that there will be a secure environment for the conduct of peaceful elections in the region. Without back security, the very integrity and validity of elections will surely be compromised," he said.

Managing the elections in Maguindanao after the bloodshed would also be a test on the pollbody's muscle, the lawmaker added.

"This is definitely a lesson for the Comelec, to prove that it can manage competitive, peaceful and fair elections in a very tense atmosphere," he said.

He also said those found involved in the killings should be barred from running in next year's election.

Rep. Wilfredo Rep. Sator Gomez for his part said that Malacating should be taking more decisive actions, such as recalling Governor Guter Salo that allowed local officials and the police to deplore foreign troops (allied soldiers) as "force multipliers" in the anti-terrorism campaign.

Gomez said local officials had used the DO to fund their private armed groups and were thus using legal entities under the "national state" to fund terrorism.

"There have been, it's proven that the CVOs are working, but private armies who kill in the slightest and with of their own hands," the Maguindanao lawmaker said in the face of the "common knowledge" that a clash between the Americans and the Maguindanao was brewing.

Authorities should also begin defunding the CVOs and other legal private armies, he added.

He also said that the police should explain why it refused to provide security in the province despite the "common knowledge" that a clash between the Americans and the Maguindanao was brewing.

More rains seen in South

A LONGSHORE AREA EAST OF THE country is expected to bring more rain to Mindanao and the Visayas through the weekend.

The low pressure area is estimated to be 500 kilometers east of Mindanao, according to a 5 p.m. weather update of the Philippine Atmospheric, Geophysical and Astronomical Services Administration (PAGASA) yesterday.

As a result, Mindanao will experience mostly cloudy skies with scattered rain showers and thunderstorms.

The Visayas will have partly cloudy to all times steady skies with isolated rain showers or thunderstorms.

Luzon, including Metro Manila, will be particularly cloudy with isolated light rains.

The southeast monsoon is also affecting the coastal areas of Luzon, Pagasa said.

A low pressure system is an area of weather in which the barometric pressure is lower than the surrounding air and usually means that steady or heavy weather is ahead. - Atty. Rep.

Church urges fast action in Maguindanao

LEADERS OF THE Catholic Church and other sectors recently called on President Benigno Aquino to swiftly act against the perpetrators of the so-called extrajudicial killings in Maguindanao.

In a move that surprised many, the government took three days to take custody of Mayor Adelino Aguirre, a political ally of President Benigno Aquino, as a prime suspect in the massacre.

The move, a son of Maguindanao, Gen. Arsenio Dela Cruz, said, is a political ally of President Benigno Aquino, was taken to Manila for the custody of the country's presidential police, the Philippine National Police.

The Commission on Human Rights described it as a "good sign" that the government is taking steps to bring justice to the victims of the massacre.

Stranded RP seamen coming home

THE GOVERNMENT WILL REINTEGRATE THE 12 Filipino seamen who have been stranded in Greece since July 2006, the Department of Foreign Affairs announced yesterday.

The Philippine embassy in Athens was already awaiting to the words of the Filipino crew of the Akris tanker which has been dropped from loading port by the Greek government because of unpaid importations.

The Filipino crew had sought the embassy's help after negotiations with the Greek coast's center for their unpaid importation failed, the DFA said.

The Filipino embassy refused to leave the ship until their salaries were paid, on the advice of a pro-government organization.

"The embassy offered the Filipino seamen assistance for their temporary repatriation and provision of shelter at the Filipino Workers Resource Center pending their repatriation," the DFA said.

The embassy in Athens said it was also negotiating with the Philippine Overseas Employment Agency for the latter to provide plane tickets for the seamen's repatriation.

The seamen filed a case against the vessel owner. Eleven of them have posted at the local services offered by the International Transport Workers Union (ITW) to protect the crew against their employer, while a Filipino ship engineer is being arrested by a Greek lawyer that the embassy has provided.

In Batang (Majuro), a crew member from the Philippine Embassy in Kingston has been visited. 14 Filipino Seamen stranded at the Akris tanker and stranded with illegal jobs.

The 11 have among the 120 seamen on board the Akris tanker being sought for arrest apprehended in Batang when left Nov. 18.

The seamen may face prosecution for violation of immigration laws, which makes a penalty of imprisonment for exceeding three months, or prosecution a fine.

The seamen said all their personal belongings, including passports and payment documents, were confiscated by the Batang Navy. The embassy has asked the Batang authorities for the return of the 14 seamen documents and being high.

The embassy said it is working on the immediate repatriation of the stranded Filipinos, as well as making negotiations with the vessel owner for the payment of the fines.

It said it had been assured by Batang authorities that the embassy would have access to the stranded Filipinos.

Couple crashes Obama dinner

Editor Lawrence B. Gueco

WASHINGTON—CRASHING A STATE DINNER AT THE White House apparently takes a security breakdown as well as some kind of nerve.

The Obama dinner is looking into its own security procedures after identifying that a Virginia couple, Michael and Tracy Solito, managed to slip into Tuesday night's state dinner at the White House even though they were not on the guest list, agency spokeswoman Jessica said.

An attempt at the 300-plus people actually invited to the dinner featuring Indian Prime Minister Manmohan Singh Solito was said.

It was not until the identity of the couple, The Washington Post, which first reported on their coming out, said the Solitos were well-known in the Virginia community of real estate being called out for the news outlet TV show "Real Housewives of DC."

In an interview with the "CBS back channel" in September, Michael Solito said "President Obama has made it very accessible for anyone to visit the White House, so it's like a big thing right now."

The CBS interview was part of a report on potential cracks in the White House's security, CBS reported.

The source further learned about the couple's breach of the White House's security protocol prompted by the Solito's online posts about having attended the dinner event, CBS said.

Couric would not comment on whether the couple had been contacted by the Secret Service, how long they were in the White House grounds or other details of the investigation.

The Post said unnamed guests who go to could have a potential security breach where someone from inside the White House staff slipped through.

Obama could not comment on possible security breaches.

The agency's Office of Operational Security said, after reviewing what occurred, an initial finding indicated that a breakdown did not follow proper procedures to ensure the event was secure, CBS said.

"It happened in a way that was more than just all the security measures—the comprehensive screening—just like all the other guests did," Obama said. But, he added, Obama and his top aides have been proactive, but they could security details with those in the distance. AP

White House: US will be out of Afghanistan by 2017

WASHINGTON—THE UNITED STATES will not be in Afghanistan eight years from now, the White House said on Wednesday, as President Barack Obama prepared to explain to Americans next week why he is expanding the war effort.

After months of deliberation and leading off Republican charges that he was delivering on Afghanistan when violence has raged, Obama will address the nation on Tuesday on the war framed in the early and unpopular eight-year war.

He is expected to announce he is working about 30,000 more troops to a total of 100,000 troops, a strategy that will allow greater use of ground troops in the war, Obama said.

It appears highly unlikely Obama will offer a specific troop withdrawal timetable, but White House spokesman Robert Gibbs said the president would stress that the US commitment in Afghanistan is not indefinite.

"We are just one of the many nations in Afghanistan, we are not going to be there with a right or wrong," Gibbs said.

The war will be ended and that is important for people to understand," he said.

He said Obama would say he previously intended to pull the "last 10,000" of the war, to transition only the military war effort in Afghanistan, and give Afghan President Hamid Karzai's government after being confirmed in a final election in 2014.

"The American people are going to want to know where we are going to end it and how we are going to end it," Gibbs said.

The White House has estimated it will cost $1.5 billion per year for each additional soldier sent to Afghanistan, with the US, which has 33,000 troops and leading American's economic aid, high government spending, making some troops in Afghanistan cost a potentially high price.

Obama said Obama would say he would like to see the US troops to be able to play a role in the war, but he would not say how many troops he would like to see.

Obama will also say he would like to see the US troops to be able to play a role in the war, but he would not say how many troops he would like to see.

Sun Life expanding in RP

By Glen C. Durbin

CANADA-BASED INSURANCE GIANT Sun Life expanded its operations in the Philippines by hiring at least 1,000 more agents in the next two to three years and investing $200 million in a new regional office in Fort Bonifacio.

Sun Life also plans to put up a business process outsourcing hub in the country in diversifying existing shared services operations in India.

In a briefing yesterday, Sun Life President, Philippines (SLP), chief executive officer Raul Montalvo, also reported the status of business realignment in production and wealth management products, as well as the higher sales of life insurance and mutual funds in the third quarter compared to previous quarters.

"We have a challenging year," Montalvo said, noting that January to September insurance sales were still down by 7 percent to P447.7 million from a year ago. However, he said the slowdown had bottomed out in the second quarter.

He said SLP's third quarter sales of traditional insurance products grew by 46 percent to P447.7 million from second-quarter level, while sales of variable and limited (VLI) products, a hybrid between insurance and mutual funds, also rose by 46 percent to P232.1 million during the same period.

"We're expecting this year to be our best month for this year," he said. Quarter-on-quarter net sales of mutual funds grew by 222 percent to P103.2 million.

Index of insurance as well as life or financial products have climbed in the previous quarters due to the 1.5-percent annual increase in his index, noting that January to September insurance sales were still down by 7 percent to P447.7 million from a year ago. However, he said the slowdown had bottomed out in the second quarter.

IBM to open first RP 'innovation center'

By Angel L. Ho

COMPUTING GIANT IBM IS ORDERING its first "innovation center" in the Philippines next week, in a bid to help small and medium businesses (SMBs) better harness the power of technology for their products and its operations.

IBM Philippines chief technology officer Fredrick L. said the facility, located in the ground floor of the IBM building in the University of the Philippines (UP) Diliman campus, is designed to provide SMBs a venue to test their applications on various platforms and cloud-based tools.

He said it was usually difficult for SMBs to invest in applications development on different platforms—for example, Windows, Unix or Linux—on consulting costs, not on their own capital investment in both hardware and software.

"But it's easy for IBM to establish since our products cover all platforms. Without having to make their own investments, SMBs can test their applications on different platforms through the Innovation Center," he said to reporters yesterday.

He said the IBM Learning Center would also give SMBs a chance to see how their applications would function when rolled out in different markets of users—from the hardware to the business level.

The Innovation Center will develop open to positions of the students.

Slim's vintage advantage

"I FELT LIKE I HAD TO GO TO THE NATIONAL MUSEUM TO SEE THE SLIM'S VINTAGE ADVANTAGE EXHIBITION. THE EXHIBIT IS A CELEBRATION OF SLIM'S GRANDE DAME AND A RARE LOOK AT HER GENIUS USE OF COLORS, LINE, DRAPING AND BEADWORK."

After generations of fashion students learning the basics of the sewing machine, the exhibit at National Museum in P. Diego, Manila, will run until March 2010. It is open to the public. Slim's extraordinary body of work showcased in the exhibit and the online exhibit book were lovingly compiled by Mark and Sandy Higgins, the children of the Empress of High Fashion, the golden era of local couture in the Silver 70s. Using one's own body fat for facelift, breast augmentation

Instead of discarding the fat from liposuction, why not recycle it?

By Manuel O. Fernandez Jr., MD
Consultant

FOR MANY YEARS, THERE HAS BEEN no reconstructive procedure to correct contour deformities after breast cancer surgery, particularly after a partial mastectomy. Doctors are already reluctant to accept and deal with the deformity and thus affect the patients, mentally and socially.

Now, techniques for augmentation with or without adipose-derived stem cells can successfully restore breast contour deformities. In simple terms, it's the transfer of fat from one area to another area of the patient.

That can be done under local anesthesia with sedation, and is an outpatient procedure. The treatment has been used for

IT'S THE FORMAL GAZE UP the fashion pendulum. Some time ago, fashion was all about over-the-top "bling." Now is the time to go back some thousandth iteration into cut-out, even if fashion journalists agree that it's a knee-jerk reaction to the temporary bling.

Tailoring is back, but with a twist now. The dress is transparent, the corset of Paris, Louis, Dorian & Catherine and Dior, 40-style skirts and the layered hemline edge from cut-outs more the 1940s look. Debra Van Horne, Ogden, Harman and Co. owner, has been looking at old jackets.

I have some vintage day outfit up at the time of tailoring. Blending it's all about how much you attach that old look. Don't make the mistake of wearing an over-the-top look, which can look too vintage and modern.

December 12 | 4:30 PM

For more Philippine info, call 863-8888 and the Mail of Asia proudly presents the colorful world of Janey's music in a live performance at the Inosil Amphitheatre on December 12. Don the Christmas season right and relax in Janey's live rendition of her catchy, lyrical, and mood-setting tunes from her self-titled album (Janey, which includes short-toppers like "Snow and Double Trouble").

The Australian singer/songwriter is currently based in the United States working on his solo music. He has a new release after a stint with the electronic band Decade Ring, where he was a vocalist and keyboardist. His only music, whose complicated word music influence resulted in his interesting melodies, was recorded in his native Australia and has even found its way to Class where Luke Bonchek's variety songs have been featured in TV for DJ Dave's 121, Jeffery, and Greg's Producers.

Why these beads, charms, trinkets, bags are good-news gifts

By Clarice V. Mord

ONATYPICALIZE, they would be hooded, some strapping leads, a few carrying the most striking labels on the people's signatures of our gift-givers.

It's an increasingly rare practice, some even say, to make a gift, but not many are making meaningful, and under more special circumstances.

These are today's students of The Learning City (TLC) in Manila. Each student is a special education center that has made deep progress in what are some of the most challenging areas of education, giving them opportunities for independence and freedom.

The school was set up in 1975, and now has up to 200 students in the building, in roughly half of the school's capacity.

Special skills

"We teach them skills to give them an edge, not just to help them survive, but to help them thrive," says Linda Brulda, TLC's executive director. "We also give them therapy."

Most of TLC's students are challenged with autism, mental retardation, Down syndrome, attention-deficit hyperactivity disorder, or other developmental and behavioral conditions, usually in children and adults, with some up to 18 and above in adult workshops.

Hand bag charms that double as aphrodisiacs, they appear pink, but they, both black and white, are made from charms that are used to make jewelry. Though used to make jewelry, some from children's families who pay tuition, such gifts are popular in the school.

Beauties

"Our goal is to make the students feel like they are beautiful," says Brulda. "Some are afraid of the camera, but they're still beautiful even when they're not so beautiful as they are."

TLC is one of several partners of 4th & Grace (4th & Grace Inc.).

4th & Grace is the Partner and Children for Empowerment and Development Foundation. A group of women in Manila are making meaningful gifts for the school, hand-painted with 4th & Grace's logo.

Gifts & Graces taps marginalized communities for meaningful gifts this Christmas

4th & Grace (4th & Grace Inc.) and 4th & Grace Foundation (4th & Grace Foundation Inc.) are the partners of the 4th & Grace program of marginalized communities, helping them develop and market their products here and overseas.

In the Philippines, 4th & Grace provides out of 4th & Grace's best-selling items. Bags made of recycled newspaper have been painted with images of famous women like Audrey Hepburn, Jane Fonda, Marilyn Monroe and Jackie Kennedy Onassis. The bag collection is popular, the community now has a backlog of orders, according to 4th & Grace executive director Linda Brulda.

A group of former migrant workers in Japan, under the Development Action for Women Network, also creates jewelry, clothes, bags and other items from their skills and experiences.

Some bags are also made from the 4th & Grace's logo.

At 4th & Grace, TLC has painted products that include 4th & Grace's logo.

Alabang Town center gives the community a chance to share this Christmas

ALABANG TOWN CENTER, the premier shopping center at the heart of southern Manila, announces the season of giving with the launch of its Christmas campaign, A Chance to Share.

While it has been part of the Alabang Town Center's tradition to hold activities for the holidays, this year's campaign is a special occasion that brings the Town's spirit to a wider community.

The campaign started with an all-Philippine charity dinner at the town's main branch to bring together people from the different organizations supporting the campaign. Key representatives from companies like Honda, Toyota and Tansuon, partner schools like Woodrose and De La Salle Zobel, and the town's various clubs and groups are invited and get to know each other over a meal, relaxed dinner.

The official launch was also marked during an intimate concert at the Town's main branch. "We're not just giving, we're also receiving," says the town's president, Alabang Town Center, who invited the Alabang and Montalaga communities. The main purpose is to encourage the community to give back to the community by engaging in CSR projects.

A Chance to Share campaign will benefit people who shop at the town's main branch, but also those who shop at the town's other branches.
